STANDARD CRICKET RULES

Object:

The object of the game is to "close" all your numbers (20 down through 15 and bulls-eye) and end up with more or equal points to your opponent. To close a number, you must hit three of that number.

Scoring:

The scoreboard is drawn with the numbers 20 through 15 and bullseye written in descending order down the center of the board. Bullseye is usually abbreviated with a B.

Each dart that lands in any of the game's numbers count toward closing that number.

The thin outer ring counts as two of that number and is called a 'double'. The thin inner ring counts as three of that number and is called a 'triple'.

Scoring for one dart is shown by placing a slash (\) next to the number scored. Scoring for two is shown by placing an X next to the number scored. Scoring for three is shown by placing a circle next to the number to indicate it is closed.

When three of a number is scored in any combination, it is closed.

Game Play:

The first player throws three darts at any of the scoring numbers to try to close that number and/or score points (see below).

The players then scores the darts that he has thrown and play alternates until one person closes all their numbers and has more or equal points to the opponent.

Points

After you close a number, if your opponent does not have the same number closed, any darts that land in that number count as points for you and are totaled on your side of the board.

For example, you have your 18 closed and your opponent only has one 18. If you throw a triple 18, you now have 54 points added to any points you may have already scored. If your opponent now throws a triple 18, only two count to close the number. The third does not count for points because your 18 is already closed.

If a player has all of their numbers closed including bullseyes but has less points, that player has not yet won the game. He must throw enough points to be even or ahead of the opponent.

If the only number the opponent has open is bullseyes, then the player must throw extra bullseyes at 25 points each (or 50 points for the double bulls-eye).

All scores must be submitted on-line @ www.ldmdl.ca

Players are responsible for notifying the Secretary of phone number changes
